

POETRY

PASSION FRUIT

Dale Mosher

On linen
luminously white I
adore how you peel
delicately the soft skin
of peaches
deliberately sensuous,
tongue curled
to spit
cherry pits, ripe
raspberry rivulets
staining your chin
incriminating drops
 caught
 red-handed.